

To Whom It May Concern:

Our family recently sought out the services of Dan Bisig at College and Beyond LLC to guide us through the financial aid process as our daughter enters the college phase of her education. As a home schooling family having successfully navigated the college application and acceptance process, Dan provided us with the specialized financial expertise of accurately calculating our Expected Family Contribution, properly filing the FAFSA Form for financial aid as well as counseling in regards to our college and family budgeting.

For minimal cost Dan provided us not only with the assurance that we were filing the proper forms and information to most benefit our family finances, but he also gave us the confidence to continue this process on our own in the future. We cannot recommend Dan Bisig at College and Beyond LLC highly enough! He is a pleasure to work with and readily available to assist in any way possible with just a phone call or an email.

Looking back, we wish we had been aware of Dan's multitude of educational services earlier on in our home schooling journey. What an asset for the home schooling community to have a private educational guidance counselor to walk with us on this path!

Sincerely,

Doug and Lisa N.
